

WISDOM COMMUNITY NEWSLETTER, ISSUE VIII

PIECES OF WISDOM

We asked our graduates: Where is being creative currently finding expression in your life?

I am becoming aware of the conversations that are barriers to being creative. I've had it as what I'm doing - arts, a project, music - rather than who I'm being. Now I am un-concealing what I hold being creative to be and exploring how I can be at cause in being creative. I'm writing a book for children, and I'm creating from the future what is next in my partnership with my husband.

— Tabitha Raggio (Year-end Customer Care Team)

Two or three years ago, I wouldn't have described myself as creative. Thinking of myself as creative is a creation in itself. In the Wisdom Course, Weekend 3, what emerged as completely out of character for me was being creative and what was aligned with my values was bringing people together. Now with 3 film projects in pre-production and post-production, I'm known as a creative! I'm consistently participating at the edges that the Wisdom Course allows for; being creative is one of the edges that I've broken through.

— Yohan Mohammed (Wisdom Leader Apprentice)
