

The Language of Being: A Year-end Course

December 2 – December 4, 2022

Online

Introducing a NEW course in the Wisdom Course Area!

Every year, the Year-end inquiry is designed to prepare the Social Commons for Transformation for the upcoming Conference for Global Transformation. For the first time, the Year-end General Sessions are available as a three-day online course!

Note: The General Sessions are the main course sessions at the Year-end Vacation.

Our exploration commences with exploring being. Being is constituent of authentic immediate, structural, representational, and generative conversations. When we are freer in emotional expression, when we can allow more structural sentences, when the limits to what is possible fall away, and when we are free to talk about and listen to anything — new structure is established, entire other rooms of the reality in which we exist emerge. Here, new worlds and hidden alternatives are manifested where we can think and act newly — boldly establishing ever greater existence to that which we care about and what matters to us.

Led by Joyce Pike and other Wisdom Area Leaders, this three-day online course is designed specifically for Wisdom graduates who are interested in engaging in the current cutting-edge conversation in the Wisdom Course Area from the comfort of their own location. It runs concurrently with the last three days of the Year-end Vacation in Panama.

There are two schedule options to allow for participation in Australia and New Zealand, Europe, and North America:
